

Lorenzo Ressel DVM PhD FHEA DipECVP MRVS ECVP-CFVP

Lorenzo Ressel is Professor of Veterinary Pathology and Head of Department of Veterinary Anatomy Physiology and at the School of Veterinary Medicine, Institute Infection Veterinary and Ecological Sciences, University of Liverpool (UK). After the veterinary degree in 2005 (Italy), he gained a PhD in Veterinary Medicine (Pathology) and subsequently worked for couple of years in biomedical research assessing animal models for stem cell therapy and tissue engraftment. After some years spent in diagnostic histopathology and cytology, he was appointed Lecturer in Veterinary Pathology at the University of Liverpool. He gained the title of Diplomate of the European College of Veterinary Pathologists by exam in 2015. He was appointed Senior Lecturer, and then in 2019 Professor of Veterinary Pathology. In 2020 he has been certificated as Veterinary Forensic Pathologist by the CFVP-ECVP, where currently serves as Chair of the steering group. He is currently research active in topics which include diagnostic oncopathology, animal models pathology and forensic veterinary pathology. Professor Ressel is an editorial board member and reviewer of International Scientific Journals, and author of more than 70 original contributions in peer reviewed scientific journals.